Working with experienced Collarts educators and industry mentors, you'll explore ethical and contextual considerations, strengthen documentary writing skills, identify compelling participants, and build professional production and post-production workflows.

Graduate with either a completed documentary ready for public exhibition and distribution, or a fully developed, pitch-ready documentary concept with a teaser trailer, demonstrating your creative, technical, and professional capability in documentary screen practice.

Feature-Length Screenplay

Extend your screenwriting skills through the development of a feature-length screenplay. Guided by a structured curriculum, you'll engage in research, character development and narrative design, with a focus on three-act story structure.

Working closely with experienced Collarts educators and professional screenwriters, you'll develop your idea, create a treatment, write your screenplay and pitch your work to industry.
